Transcriber's Office
FLOOR DEBATE

January 23, 2003 LB 107

SENATOR JENSEN: Yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: So if our rich compatriots...we won't use that term because that's class warfare based on your President. If those who are well-heeled, with deep, fat pockets, do not put money into the tax bucket, even though they have income of a type which would be taxed in other circumstances, it means that the burden on those who do put money in the tax bucket is going to be increased. In other words, as you shrink the base from which taxes are to be derived, you have to increase the rate at which those who are paying the taxes pay them. Can you agree with that?

SENATOR JENSEN: Yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: So, by giving tax-exempt bonding authority to these private institutions, they are being subsidized by the taxpayers who are paying taxes into the tax bucket. Isn't that the practical effect of this?

SENATOR JENSEN: Yes, unless we want to change our entire tax code.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Okay. Thank you, Senator Jensen. Members of the Legislature...oh, I have another question. Are the majority of these private schools in Nebraska...

SPEAKER BROMM: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...religion related, related to some religion or sponsored by some religion?

SENATOR JENSEN: The majority, yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Yes.

SENATOR JENSEN: Not all.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: I said the majority.
